Venturing into unknown territory — and never being the same?

Energizing people around you — and saving a dose for yourself?

Needing people — and having them need you?

Turning ideas into actions — and trying new things?

Urging residents to tap into their potential — and consider all their possibilities?

Respecting differences — and opening your world?

Encouraging the hopes of others — and keeping hope alive?

If you are ready for an adventure that will help your leadership skills and increase your ability of working with fellow students, come by DSC 205 and pick up an R.A. application. Deadline for submission is April 14th. Both males and females are needed.

A one time riddle with a monetary reward for the solution:

Einstein's Riddle

Somewhere in the world there is a small neighborhood full of very eccentric and intelligent people. There are five houses that are each a different color. There is a person of a different nationality that lives in each house. Each of these five people drinks their own special drink, smokes their own brand of cigarettes, and has their own special pet. No one has the same pet, smokes the same brand of cigarettes. Or drinks the same drink. One of these five people owns a pet fish. With just the following information, figure out who owns the pet fish.

The British man lives in the red house.

The Swedish man has a dog for a pet.

The Danish man drinks tea.

The green house is to the left of the white house.

The owner of the green house drinks coffee.

The person that smokes Pall Mall cigarettes has a bird.

The owner of the yellow house smokes Dunhill cigarettes.

The person that lives in the middle house drinks milk.

The Norwegian lives in the first house.

The person that smokes Blend cigarettes lives next to the one that has a cat.

The person that has a horse lives next door to the one that smokes Dunhill cigarettes.

The one that smokes Bluemaster cigarettes drinks beer.

The German smokes Prince cigarettes.

The Norwegian lives next to a blue house.

The person that smokes Blend cigarettes has a neighbor that drinks water.

Any ALC student who thinks he or she has the correct answer, can drop by DSC 205 and possibly win the $10 prize.
